Lawn Mowing a Pleasure

Brockville Mower is the easiest running mowers that are manufactured. The ball bearings run in a smooth even race, the other parts have perfectly machined bearings.

The knives are Sheffield steel and will hold an edge under most exacting conditions.

When you buy a Brockville Mower you buy a piece of machinery that if properly taken care of, that is oiled carefully before you use it, will outlast a cheaper one three or four times.

Sizes 14 to 18 inches. Price $10.00 to $20.00.

FORMER KRUPP'S DIRECTOR TURNS KINGS EVIDENCE IN SENSATIONAL REVELATIONS

Gumlingen, Switzerland, June 6.—Germany was wholly in agreement with Austria-Hungary regarding the ultimatum sent to Serbia at the outbreak of the war, says Dr. Wilhelm Muehlon, former director of Krupp's in further disclosures on the responsibility for the bringing on of the conflict. Emperor William was personally responsible for Germany's participation and forced the German leaders to support his war policy.

Dr. Muehlon, who was head of Krupp at the outbreak of the war and who recently startled Europe with his disclosures, received the correspondent of the Associated Press at his country home where he is now living in retirement. The visit came as Dr. Muehlon was preparing to issue a more detailed review of conditions leading to the war and the emperor had had the advantage of going over the documents with the personal explanation of the author.

Dr. Muehlon's first disclosures which caused such commotion, gave conversations with Dr. Karl Hefferrich, former vice-chancellor and Dr. Krupp von Bohlen, chief owner of the Krupp works, in which both told him the emperor had disclosed the agreement with Austria-Hungary on the ultimatum to Serbia and that Germany would mobilize immediately if Russia mobilized which would inevitably draw other powers and precipitate a universal war.

The document issued is more detailed and general, gives day by day notes made by Dr. Muehlon at the critical time at the opening of the war. Dr. Muehlon then had gone from the foreign office to the directorate of Krupp and his position gave him constant access to the highest quarters. He gives glimpses of the five chief figures from the emperor down, but in the main avoids the mention of names for reasons of discretion, though there are likely to be further chapters later giving names letters and documents showing how the highest quarters in Germany planned systematically for the bringing on of a general war.

The whole trend of the present work is to show that the world conflict was imposed by the German emperor's personal military policy and his private engagement with Austria on the eve of the struggle.

RESTRICTING IMPORTS

The order-in-council prohibiting the import without special license of certain fruits and other commodities, and certain manufactured articles, is already in effect. Goods in transit are now admitted, but in future the goods in the prescribed list will not be admitted unless by special license. The action taken by the government is sudden and somewhat serious. The only excuse given is that the currency balance between United States and Canada is so great against Canada that we must limit our importation in some way.

The arrangements made by the government for safeguarding the consumer are not very definite. If the government has limited the prices of fruit which cannot be imported, it has made no very definite statement about it and revealed none of the details. Unless it does make some such restrictions, the consumer will be in the hands of the fruit grower and have a clear idea of what that would mean in this part of the Dominion. If there is no such regulation of prices then the effect of the restriction will be an abnormal tax upon the consumer, extraordinary bonus for the fruit grower and the manufacturer effected, in order that international exchange may be brought nearer to the equilibrium, the importance of which is somewhat visionary.

The government, the Globe is disposed to believe, has been forced to make an exception to a general order restricting the importation of fruit to suit certain provinces or districts. What may be possible under certain conditions in certain parts of the Dominion, would be unbearable in others. For that reason we believe that the license will be used very freely in enabling the Alberta fruit dealers to import fruit into the prairie provinces. That is a somewhat desperate method of meeting an emergency, which really does not exist. It opens the door to favoritism which would be great temptation to a government with less backbone than the present government. It is a wrong principle in administration.

If the price of fruit and other commodities affected by the restrictive regulation are not increased, and the government uses the license privilege fairly and wisely, the new order in council may be harmful but it is not good legislation, and there is something about it that is suspicious.

RIVER MARNE FOR SECOND TIME MARKS END OF THE ENEMY DRIVE

Washington, June 5.—With the Berlin official statement tonight conceding that there is "no change" on the western battlefield, observers here became increasingly confident that the river Marne, for the second time in the great struggle, has marked the end of a drive intended to crush resistance to the German war machine.

There was some question as to whether it was possible that history would repeat itself and the invader again be hurled back in precipitous retreat before a vigorous onslaught. There was nothing to indicate however that any official familiar with the progress of the fighting believed such a stroke by French's army was to be expected now. They did not see any reason to believe that German power had exhausted itself.

It is more than possible, it was said, that renewed assaults on the line from Chateau-Thierry to Soissons would come at any moment. The German high command may be gathering strength there to force a way through toward Paris. Unofficial reports from the front however indicate that the crack German offensive divisions, the shock troops relied upon time and again to break through the allied lines, were disappearing from the new battle front.

THE UNION JACK

Winds of the World give answer? They are whispering to and fro—
And what should they know of England who only England know!
The poor little street-bred people that vapor and fume and brag,
They are lifting their heads in the stillness to yelp at the English Flag!

Must we borrow a clout from the Boer—to plaster anew with dirt?
An Irish liar's bandage, or an English coward's shirt?
We may not speak of England; her Flag to sell or share,
What is the Flag to England? Winds of the World declare!

The North Wind Blew: "From Bergen my Steelshod vanguards go;
"I chase your lazy whalers home from the Disko floe;
"By the Great North Lights above me I work the will of God,
"That the liner splits on the ice field or the Dogger fills with Cod.

"I barred my Gates with iron, I shuttered my doors with flame,
"Because to force my ramparts your nutshell navies came,
"I took the sun from their presence, I cut them down with my blast,
"And they died, but the Flag of England blew free ere the spirit passed.

"The lean white bear hath seen it in the long, long Arctic night,
"The musk-ox knows the standard that flouts the Northern Light,
"What is the Flag of England? Ye have but my bergs to dare,

"Ye have but my drifts to conquer. Go forth, for it is there!"

The South Wind sighed: "From The Virgins my mid-sea course was ta'en

"Over a thousand islands lost in an idle main,
"Where the sea-egg flames on the coral and the long backed breakers croon
"The endless ocean legends to the lazy, locked lagoon.

"Strayed amid lonely islets, mazed amid outer keys,
"I waked the palms to laughter—I tossed the seud in the breeze

"Never was isle so little, never was sea so lone,
"But over the seud and the palm trees an English flag was flown.

"I have wrenched it free from the halliard to hang for a wisp on the Horn;

"I have chased it north to the Lizard—ribboned and rolled and torn;

"I have spread its folds o'er the dying, adrift on a hopeless sea;
"I have hurled it swift on the slaver, and seen the slave set free.

"My basking sunfish know it, and wheeling albatross,
"Where the lone wave fills with fire beneath the Southern Cross

"What is the Flag of England? Ye have but my reefs to dare;
"Ye have but my seas to furrow. Go forth, for it is there!"

The East Wind roared; From the Kuriles, the Bitter Seas, I come.

And me men call the Home-Wind, for I bring the English home.

"Look—look! well to your shipping! By the breath of my mad typhoon

"I swept your close-packed Praya and beached your best at Kowloon!

"The reeling junks behind me and the racing seas before,
"I raped your richest roadstead—I plundered Singapore!

"I set my hand on the Hoogli; as a hooded snake she rose,
"And I flung your stoutest steamers to roost with the startled crows.

"Never the lotus closes, never the wild-fowl wake,
"But a soul goes out on the East Wind that died for England's Sake—

"Man or Woman or Snuckling, mother bride or maid—
"Because on the bones of the English the English Flag is stayed.

"The desert dust hath dimmed it, the flying white-ass knows
"The scared white leopard winds it across the timeless snows.

"What is the Flag of England? Ye have but my sun to dare,
"Ye have but my sands to travel. Go forth, for it is there!"

The West Wind Called: "In squadrons the thoughtless galleons

"That bear the wheat and cattle lest street-bred people die,
"They make my might their porter, they make my house their path,

"Till I loose my neck from their rudder and whelm them all in my wrath

"I draw the gliding fog bank as a snake is drawn from the hole;
"They bellow one to the other, the frightened ship-bells toll,

"For day is a drifting terror till I raise the shroud with my breath.

"And they see strange bows above them and the two go locked to death

"But whether in calm or wrack-wrath, whether by dark or day
"I heave them whelm to the conger or rip their plates away,

"First of the scattered legions, under the shrieking sky,
"Dipping between the rollers, the English Flag goes by.

"The dead dumb fog hath wrapped it—the frozen dew has kissed—
"The naked stars have seen it, a fellow-star in the mist.

"What is the Flag of England? Ye have but my breath to dare,

"Ye have but my waves to conquer. Go forth, for it is there!"

Lieut. ALEX TALBOT R. F. C.
KILLED

Lieut. Alex. Talbot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Talbot, was killed in an aerial accident in France on Monday last, June 3rd. No particulars of the accident have been received up to time of writing. Deceased joined the Flying Corps some two years ago and after training at Camp Mohawk, Ont., Camp Borden, and Fort Worth, Texas, went overseas early this spring. He was a most efficient and painstaking officer, and gained promotion rapidly; the last letter received from him by his parents (dated May 18) being to the effect that he had graduated that day and was on four days leave previous to going to France. Before joining the forces of the Empire, deceased was a student of the Alberta University for three years, and was associated with the law firm of Hon. A. G. McKay. He was a boy universally liked, and numbered among his friends everyone who came in contact with him. He was twenty two years of age.

The sincere sympathy of their many friends is extended to the bereaved family.

AT THE REX

At great extra expense the Rex management has been able to secure for Red Cross night a most sensational special feature direct from the Triangle Studio in California. "Jim Bludso" is the title, and has to do with the early life of steamboaters on the Mississippi river. There is a real steamboat race, and other thrilling features in the picture. You have doubtless read the poem and story of "Jim Bludso," the great steamboat engineer, and hero of old river life, and the story has lost nothing by its reproduction in pictures. Miss Ella Simpson will have charge of the music.

On Saturday and Monday "Pride of Man" will be the offering. Wm. Russell is leading man, with Dorothy Philips leading lady, and this is the strongest combination of real stars you will see in Lacombe for some time. The play is a new one, and has never been shown in Alberta before. We have not got anything on our list but first releases and they are the very best in the world.

Dainty little Marie Osborne will be here again on Tuesday and Wednesday in her newest play "Tears and Smiles," turned out by the Pathe Company less than six weeks ago. It is a beautiful play, like all of Baby Marie's, and there will be a good crowd to greet her next week.

$100 REWARD

It has been definitely decided by the Food Board that sausage is not to be regarded as pork in the restrictions applying to porcine products. We have long had doubt as to the correct classification of the sausage and the decision from Ottawa does much to increase it. What is sausage anyway?

Two million boxes of Canadian cheese are being exported this season to Britain for the use of soldiers and British people. With such a fine market being established for one of our most important dairy products it would be extremely foolish for Canadian farmers to halt at this time in their forward march on the mixed farming trail.

At the meeting of the council of Rural Municipality of Crown held in Lacombe on Friday last, it was decided that all taxes in the district must be paid in cash this year.

Note and Comment

Export of Canadian gold to the United States is to be prohibited. This will bother the luxury-loving Canadian less than the fact that importation of a good many articles he delights in has been prohibited.

The cheering announcement comes from Washington that despite enemy submarine activity along the Atlantic coast the shipping of troops by transport to Europe has been and is proceeding steadily without and interruption. So much for the underseas terror.

British Columbia strawberry growers should be delighted at the announcement that early American berries are to be banned from the west. If the embargo goes in force at once there will be time enough for the people to have their appetites whetted again for the luscious fruit before the coast province crop matures.

As was to have been expected, the enemy misjudge the temper of the American people when he attacked the shipping along the United States coast. Being of British stock, the Americans meet the attacks with announcement of greater war determination than ever. The Germans are poor students of psychology.

General Newburn, minister of militia in Quebec province discussing military matters in a friendly way with leaders of the people there. Reports that he has been heartily welcomed indicates another step in the direction of the true entente cordiale that is rapidly coming between Quebec and the rest of the Dominion.

Judging by miles the Germans are but a short distance from Paris but their nearness cannot be estimated by mere miles. Every yard of every mile of the way means a fight more desperate than anything the Huns have participated in yet. So far as the objective is concerned the enemy might as well be a thousand miles away.

If the government prohibits the importation of fruits generally throughout the Dominion the prairie provinces west will suffer much more acutely than the eastern provinces. Here we have to depend almost entirely upon the supplies from British Columbia, which are quite inadequate to meet the demand. In the east there will be many sources of supply.

Two prominent women of the Methodist denomination of Alberta have volunteered for pastoral service, because of the scarcity of male preachers. There is no reason to believe that the Word will be preached any less powerfully in the stations occupied by those devoted women than elsewhere, and it is conceivable that their work may be more acceptable than would have been that of men.

The order-in-council limiting importations is in effect now. The customs department may give certain licenses to certain people to import regardless of the order already made which is an additional objection to the order-in-council there is too much despotism and favoritism to be good administration.

Parcels are being received at the local post-office to be sent to United States soldiers serving in France. It might be well to state that the United States have forbidden the sending of parcels to their soldiers, and they are being returned to the senders. The reason is that shipping, being so scarce, it is not advisable to take up the room when men and supplies are so much needed.

In the old land if a man has an income of $100,000 he must leave half of it with the tax collector, which seems hardly enough either. If a man has an income of $100,000 why shouldn't he leave it all but about $5000 or less, according to the size of his family, with the tax collector. It will come to that within the next decade.

The second German advance is ended. It was not as disastrous as the first, but it was much more disastrous than many people expected. The third attack which is sure to follow the second, should not last for more than one day and cover no more ground than the shadow of the kaiser.

Last week a section of the new Greek army working with the Allies in the east were given their opportunity to make good, and according to all accounts they succeeded admirably. This lifting of the veil from the Balkan front is welcomed. It reminds us that there is a formidable Allied army there ready to do what is needed when the proper moment arrives.

With a settlement reached in the Vancouver shipyard strike Canada is again pretty well freed from labor troubles. In view of the fact that these strikes always end in some sort of an agreeable settlement after more or less delay, how much better it would be for both labor and capital to arbitrate and reach agreement without the necessity for strikes at all. We can ill-afford these unnecessary interruptions to production during the war.

RE FOOD BOARDING

Farmers may be reassured that there is no intention on the part of the authorities to inconvenience them unduly in their busy season with unnecessary restrictions and regulations as regards the hoarding of foodstuffs.

An order of the Canada Food board recently made it illegal for people to have more than 15 days supply, made wholly or in part from wheat, on hand at any one time. For people living at a greater distance than two miles and not less than five miles from dealers licensed by the Canada Food Board, sufficient for their ordinary requirements up to 30 days only was allowed and for persons living 10 miles or more 120 days supply.

Further it was required that any such surplus holdings should forthwith be returned to the miller or dealer from whom they were purchased, at the purchase price or at the market price, whichever were the lower.

This order was designed primarily to remedy a state of things in the towns and cities, as it was commonly reported that some people had laid in undue quantities of flour in view of the world's scarcity, selfishly thinking that they would be sure of a normal supply for the next year or so whether the people of Europe starved or not.

In the case of farmers, however, it pointed out that it was their custom in many cases to take wheat to the mill and get several months supply ground on one occasion so as to save frequent trips and the waste of time. To require that such a farmer return all surplus flour to the mill and then come back every couple of weeks, or like short intervals, for supplies of their own flour, would seriously interfere with farm work, occasioning unnecessary travelling and the waste of days precious, especially at seeding and harvest time, to the cause of production, a cause more important, even than that of conservation.

Bona-fide farmers are now permitted to hold flour in excess of the amounts provided for other people. An order-in-council passed on May 17th makes this express provision:

A bona-fide farmer shall be permitted to hold, subject to the order of the Canada Food Board, the amount of flour, made wholly or in part from wheat, he may have in his possession in excess of the amount prescribed by Order No. 31 if, on or before the 15th day of June 1918, he reports to the miller or dealer, from whom it was purchased or by whom it was manufactured, the excess amount held by him.

When these reports are received it is the duty of the miller or dealer to pass them on to the Canada Food Board and thus it will be known by the authorities what the supply of flour in the country is and where it is. Further this order provides that in cases where a farmer or any other person has in his possession one partly used barrel or package he shall not be required to return his surplus requirements nor shall he be required to return amounts less than 25 pounds. Thus it is seen that the intention of the Order is entirely reasonable and will not work hardship or inconvenience unnecessarily.

THE QUEBEC SITUATION

While some of the party papers in Ontario are a source of praise over the enlistment of the French Canadians, the Quebec press, which sees the situation at closer range does not share in this hasty jubilation. That there is a change for the better in Quebec is a fact which is gratifying but it is altogether too early in the movement for the English-speaking press to accept it as completely satisfactory. One robin does not make a spring, so sudden change of front by the Laval students cannot be regarded as proving a universal desire to enlist. On this point we submit the evidence of L'Autorité, which in a recent article says:

"Here in Quebec we do not make as much noise as in the sister province, but very often we do better than in the other provinces, and it is not without pride that we see a marked transformation amongst the compatriots. There is, however, one cloud, and that is in the announcement that in the ranks of the military units in process of formation here there are 800 to 2000 absentees. What signifies these absentees if not desertion? Amongst the masses there are evidently those whose courage failed them, but we hope that they will finally finish by responding to the call. We also count upon the others, who are obeying the law to open their eyes in order that they may never compromise the honor of our race and of our province. Where are these deserters hiding themselves? We do not know, but we dare say that they will not escape the military authorities and that one day they will be apprehended. Why not organize parties who will hunt them out, for they must submit in the end? Better, in fact, face the dangers of the trenches than be banished from society for the remainder of their days."

Clearly the situation exciting so much enthusiasm in a section of the Ontario press is not so reassuring to those who know more intimately what is transpiring in the Province of Quebec.

MISSAPPREHENSION MAY
OUT DOWN PRODUCTION

It is stated that a large number of farmers who were placed in other than Category "A" by standing medical board of Review have got it into their heads that this is the equivalent to being called to the colors and have consequently been neglecting their farms. One man it is stated when he received the notice at once turned his horses on the range, and is endeavoring to find someone to look after his general farming interests. Others are also endeavoring to dispose of their holdings.

All this of course is entirely wrong, and registrar Carson dears that special attention should be called to the matter. He states that men who were placed in other than Category "A" by the standing medical board will in the usual order of things receive an order to present themselves before the medical Board of Review, this does not necessarily mean that their exemptions will be cancelled if placed in category "A" and claimant having sufficient ground for exemption will be given this for not exceeding six months. At the expiration of this period each case will then be reviewed, and if he results of the previous six months have been satisfactory, he will be granted further extension.

GERMANY AND AUSTRIA

The journey that Kaiser Karl of Austria made to the Great German army headquarters last month was a penitential journey and the pact he made with Kaiser Wilhelm was the forced submission that a feudal vassal pays a lord. The penitence was for the bungling attempt of Austria to make peace without the German kaisers' knowledge, which M. Clemenceau recently exposed to the world. The pact which binds Austria-Hungary to at least fifteen years of economic and military dictation from Berlin, was the result of the internal weakness that make a dual empire dependent for its very existence on German military power.

The critical situation of Austria has both an economic and a political cause.

The economic cause is a great and constantly increasing lack of food; millions of Karls' subjects are in serious straits for bread enough to sustain life. Hungary, a great grain country, is pretty well off, but it refuses to let the rest of the nation have what it needs; and the difficulty of rationing the people of the Tirol and of Bohemia is so great that it is proposed to annex parts of those provinces to the German Empire so far as food administration is concerned. The hope of a great store of wheat in the Ukraine which bought up Austrian courage six months, has had to be abandoned at last, and it is no exaggeration to say that there is a great deal of real, though slow starvation in Austria.

The political cause is the rising tide of Slavie race consciousness throughout the empire. The Russian revolution set fire to the imagination of Czech and Jugo-Slav alike, and their common hopes as well as their common sufferings have led those Slavie peoples, separated by the width of the empire, to undertake united political action in opposition to the German-Magyar group that, in spite of its inferiority in numbers, has long controlled the Austrian state. In the south—particularly in Bosnia, Herzegovina, Carinthia and Carniola—the spirit of rebellion is abroad. News from that part of the world is rigidly censored, but we know that there are frequent riots and political demonstrations in behalf of the independent Jugo-Slav nation, and that the desertions from the Jugo-Slav regiments were so numerous that almost all those regiments had to be withdrawn from the Italian front. Finally, representatives of that people have at last met representatives of Italy and agreed upon a common policy with regard to the Adriatic and to the Dalmatian shore. We do not know the precise terms of the understanding, but, whereas in the past the Slavs have hesitated to desert Austria because they feared that Italy wished to seize and dominate all their seacoast on the Adriatic, they are now reassured concerning Italian intentions and sure of Italian support.

Under the strain of War Austria-Hungary steadily toward a break up like that of Russia. The agreement with Germany surrenders the independence of the nation in return for enough Prussian military power to keep it from flying into half a dozen fragments. It will be hard to get the Reichsrath to approve the part for only a minority of the Hungarians desire it; but if legal means fail, the armies of Germany will be used to enforce the new "alliance." The allies must win in the west; else Austria, like Russia, will become a mere province of the Hohenzollern empire, and the Slav race from the Arctic to the Mediterranean, and from the Baltic to the Pacific, will be under the German heel.

PRISONERS TURNED INTO BLOCKS OF ICE

London, June 7.—(Via Reuters') Another appalling story has just been added to the long list of German atrocities. This is an account given by a member of the Royal navy division, who was captured at the siege of Antwerp, and has now arrived in England, after escaping to a neutral country. He tells this fiendish story of the outrages on British prisoners on the Riga front involving the slow murder of 40 men sent out to work under fire. It had been decided he says, that out of the batch of 500 British Soldiers, 36 should be punished as the result of an allegation that 36 German soldiers that were prisoners were murdered by British sentries. The men were formed in groups of three and the misdeeds of any individual was visited on all three men in the group. They were then taken from the working parties at the end of the day, made to mount on a brick and then were tied to a pole, the brick afterwards, was kicked away, leaving the men suspended two and one half hours each night for fourteen nights in the intense cold. Forty men died as a result of this treatment, for when they were released they were like blocks of ice and circulation
had to be restored by their comrades.

Prior to this 200 British prisoners had been marched 22 miles from Libau to Kelsen, without food or rest often having to travel over snow drifts waist deep. If they halted, Uhlans drove them forward with prods, with their lanes. One poor naval division man, who fell in the snow, was chased by a Uhlans whose lance entered his head behind the ear.
Frost got into the wound. He did not know the ultimate fate of this man. A grenadier, guardman who had collapsed was shot in the head by a Uhlans, who he marked. "You are no good any longer."

count of the big U. P. A. meeting to be held in Lacombe on Tuesday,

Guide will speak. We want to

CONSERVING MOISTURE FOR 1919 CROP

Moisture is one of the main controlling factors in crop production in the Prairie Provinces.
Three methods of conserving moisture are:

First, to have the ground in such condition that the rainfall will soak down and not run off.

Second, to keep the surface of the soil sufficiently fine and loose that the movement of the water is checked two or three inches from the surface.

The third method of conserving moisture is to destroy all weed plants on cultivated ground.

Most farmers summer till a part of their farm with two objects in view, to store up moisture and destroy the weeds. Experiments on the Scott Station have shown that early plowed summerfallow will store up more moisture and have heavier crops the succeeding year than late plowed fallow.

Plowing the middle of May has given 3.23 bushels more wheat per acre than plowing in July. June ploughing has given 2.23 bushels more than July plowing. This increased yield from early plowing is due to not only storing more moisture but to less loss from weed plants, that grow up on the late fallows.

It is sometimes thought that plowing down a crop of weeds will have manurial benefits. Experiments conducted have shown that there is not only a loss of moisture, due to the weeds using it but it is difficult to cover the weeds and make them decay in a reasonable time. Then too, the ground is left in a more open condition, permitting drying out. Experiments at the Scott Station have shown that ploughing down green crops such as peas and vetches does not give as good returns as does incorporating barnyard manure into the soil.

Early plowed summer fallows,
well cultivated with the duckfoot cultivator will mean an increase in yield and the frequency with which the land is summerfallowed
and the number of weeds present will be determining factors in regulating the amount of cultivation necessary.

It might be pointed out that where summerfallowing alternate years is practiced and there is a reasonable amount of moisture the land will not stand the same amount of cultivation that land will that is only summerfallowed once in three or four years. Especially is this true in the northern districts where early autumn

frosts prevail.

RECLAMATION DITCHERS

There will be a demonstration of the road making capabilities of the Reclamation Ditcher, said to be the greatest road making machine of the day. The demonstration will be made on the road running north and south past the Experimental Farm on Friday and Saturday next. All interested in good roads are invited to attend the demonstration.

Most Heat from Fuel

One reason why the Kootenay Range gives the most use of the heat
generated from the fuel,
is that the grates have angle vents to make perfect combustion in the boxes, which is properly and scientifically proportioned according to the needs of the range.
